Practice Profile

Sebastian has joined Crucible with an established and busy Crown Court practice, having represented clients in cases involving serious violence, fraud, organised crime, gangs, firearms, drugs, human trafficking, modern slavery and more. He is also instructed in cases which concern sexual offences and indecent images, with expertise in dealing with Sexual Risk Orders (SROs).

He has a particular interest in working with youth and vulnerable clients tried in connection with in county lines gangs and has also acted for youth defendants charged with serious child sex offences.

Sebastian has also been instructed in protest cases, including those involving high-profile climate protest groups, and is familiar with the complexities surrounding the defences often raised in those cases.

He acts as a junior and alone and is increasingly developing a practice as a led junior in serious and complex cases.

In addition to defending and prosecuting in general and serious crime, Sebastian has experience in representing clients in prosecutions relating to the licensing of HMOs and other Housing Act prosecutions concerning the private rental sector.

Sebastian has represented professional clients and corporate clients in criminal proceedings in both England and Wales, including agents with a sizeable profile.

Outside of the courtroom, Sebastian has a flair for the dramatic and can often be found performing in amateur dramatics, theatre and filmmaking.

Sebastian acts on both a private and publicly funded basis.
